I most liked the usage of choreography that clearly conveyed the emotions of the characters, making it clear to the audience without even needing to see their facial expressions!

I loved how incredible the physical theatre was! Taking away the facial expressions was so intensely powerful, and it was so impressive how much could be portrayed with the body alone.
A great show!

The Lost Balloon could easily appeal to all ages, and theatergoers, with the small but super talented cast perfectly depicting the journey of finding the balloon!

I enjoyed how interactive it was and that was perfect to keep the kids engaged, whilst we could also grasp the main message in the show. I loved the lack of facial expressions due to the masks, and lack of speech, it made it simple for the children but also allowed us to really focus on the body language and smaller details.

The movement, like the lollipop laides scene and the creativity I enjoyed the constant motif of the yellow balloon, and I liked how it could really symbolise many things, not just a balloon. I also liked how engaging it was for the children.

What I really liked about the show was the use of the balloon symbolising the journey through life, where you focus on one goal, meeting people on the way, and having different weird and wacky experiences. This was extremely well done to suit to focused child audience, which made them extremely engaged to the show.

The anonymity of the actors
- it was interesting to see how androgynous the characters and actors were,
and I think it made it easier for both girls and boys to relate to the story.

I enjoyed all of the interactive parts of the play, such as when the three actors used the signs to get people to clap, or when they went out into the audience to get everyone to participate in photos. the creativity with the balloons, costumes, and staging was
also very fun to watch.
